

End piece

Penelope Hellyer

©Penelope Hellyer

Tucked away in the corner of the house and a boundary wall, Clematis montana var. 'Grandiflora' – planted far too close to the fence, in a narrow border – thrives and makes a subtle combination, weaving in and out of Rosa banksiae 'Lutea'. With some judicious pruning, these two rampant plants enjoy a sunny warm place, and add delightful spring colour to the garden. 🌸